THE BIBLE OF REAL ESTATE AUCTIONS Buy Your Property with Up to 60% Discount

Author: Solomon Von Herclestein

PREFACE

Why I Wrote This Book

Conflict of interest: this book promotes the Hercleus Terminal and the AVVISI podcast, products and services of my own. They may be useful to readers, and they also generate income for me.

Good afternoon. This is Solomon Von Herclestein speaking.

Today we will discuss — or rather, I will present an exposition on real estate auctions. This book is the expanded and in-depth version of the content I have been presenting in my classes and lectures. It is the "Bible of Real Estate Auctions: Buy Your Property with Up to 60% Discount".

I wrote this book because I never tire of explaining that real estate auctions are a good investment, with financial returns much higher than other applications and with risk much lower than imagined. Even so, because it is still not popular in Brazil, people are afraid to make bids. This fear decreases daily as new auction houses emerge and the press dedicates more space to covering this market.

My Story: From the First Auction to a Built Estate

In August 2022, I purchased an apartment in Vila Madalena, São Paulo, for R$ 180,000. I spent over R$ 50,000 on other expenses. Time passed, and I resold the property for R$ 320,000. This is a profit of R$ 90,000 in less than 12 months — which, compared to, for example, savings accounts or some bonds that revolve around 12% per year, represents more than three years of returns on fixed-income securities yielding around 12% per year, before costs, taxes and the time the money was tied up. It is therefore not a like-for-like annual return comparison.

This was not an isolated case. It was the first of many. And I believe that if you are reading this book, you can also achieve similar or even better results.

Who This Book Is For

This book is for you who:

• Wants to buy your own home paying much less than market value • Seeks an alternative investment with returns higher than savings and fixed income • Wants to understand how the real estate auction market works without falling for scams or false promises

• Wants to become a real estate investor with solid legal and financial knowledge • Is a foreigner and wants to invest in the Brazilian real estate market

How to Use This Book

This book is organized into seven Parts, ranging from foundation to practice.

PART I — The Foundation: Understand what a real estate auction is, its legal basis and the types that exist.

PART II — The Path: Learn how to participate in an auction, from reading the notice to making your bid.

PART III — The Business: Discover the costs, the acquisition, taking possession, renovation and sale.

PART IV — The Strategy: Master the mathematics of profit, the 3 pillars of success and the magic of compound interest applied to auctions.

PART V — The Danger: Know the real risks and how to avoid them.

PART VI — The Practice: Follow the complete checklist for your first auction and study real cases.

PART VII — The Future: Understand market trends and the mindset of the successful investor.

Additionally, I included bonus chapters on investment for foreigners and high-value auctions, plus appendices with legislation, glossary and practical tools.

Let's begin.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

This book is informational and educational. It is not investment advice, legal advice, or tax advice. Real estate auctions involve risks, including loss of capital. Before deciding, consult a lawyer, an accountant, and an investment advisor registered with the CVM (Brazil's securities regulator). The author promotes his own products and services (Hercleus Terminal and the AVVISI podcast) throughout the book.

PART I — THE FOUNDATION

Chapter 1: What Is a Real Estate Auction?

1.1 Definition and Basic Concepts

The assets sold in real estate auctions can come from legal proceedings, banks, insurance companies, businesses or private individuals.

A real estate auction is a category of real estate asset sales, and in this type of transaction there is no direct negotiation between a buyer and a seller. In the case of judicial auctions, the sale is made through a legal process, and the judge will homologate or reject the purchase. In auctions, interested parties make bids in competition, in which the best offer will be homologated.

1.2 The Difference Between Conventional Purchase and Auction Purchase

Conventional purchase and auction, side by side:

Aspect	Conventional purchase	Auction purchase
Negotiation	Direct with the seller	Through bidding at auction
Price	Negotiated with the market	Winning bid
Property condition	Free inspection	In the condition it is in
Debts	Seller pays off	May be assumed by the buyer
Time	Flexible	Set by the notice

1.3 Why Properties Go to Auction

The main factor is crisis. Brazil has not yet recovered from the economic crisis that left millions unemployed. According to the author's analysis, the COVID-19 pandemic also affected the sector. We had a post-COVID recession, and this reduced the number of real estate launches. Those with money began to look for used properties with better payment conditions. This was the starting point for the growth of the auction market.

Brazilians discovered this possibility and started making bids to buy their own homes paying much less. Furthermore, many financial institutions loaded with repossessed properties that needed to be sold facilitated negotiation, spread payments and, in many cases, even financed the winning bid with terms almost as long as a mortgage and rates that vary by institution.

1.4 The Legal Basis of Real Estate Auctions

The real estate auction is based on Law number 9,514, of November 20, 1997, which provides for the Real Estate Financing System, institutes the fiduciary alienation of real property and provides other provisions.

The Real Estate Financing System (SFI) aims to promote real estate financing in general, under conditions compatible with the formation of respective funds.

Chapter 2: The Legal Foundation of Auctions

Before 1997, the enforcement of real estate guarantees relied mainly on Decree-Law 70/1966, which provided for out-of-court enforcement of mortgage credits of the Housing Finance System. Law 9,514/97 established fiduciary sale of real estate and the Real Estate Financing System (SFI). Law 13,465/2017 and Law 14,711/2023 changed this regime, and Decree-Law 70/66 was partly revoked by the latter. The following sections describe the current law.

2.1 Law 9,514/97: The Real Estate Financing System (SFI)

Law 9,514/97 is the foundation of the real estate auction market in Brazil.

Article 1: The Real Estate Financing System (SFI) aims to promote real estate financing in general, under conditions compatible with the formation of respective funds.

Article 2: The following may operate in the SFI: Caixa Econômica Federal, commercial banks, investment banks, banks with real estate credit portfolios, real estate credit companies, savings and loan associations, mortgage companies and, at the discretion of the National Monetary Council (CMN), other entities.

Article 3: Real estate credit securitization companies, non-financial institutions established as joint-stock companies, shall aim to acquire and securitize these credits and issue and place on the financial market Certificates of Real Estate Receivables (CRI), being able to issue other securities, conduct business and provide services compatible with their activities.

Second auction under the out-of-court procedure: if the first auction has no bid equal to or above the property value set in the contract, a second auction is held within 15 days. In it, the bid must be equal to or above the full debt, expenses and legal charges (art. 27, §§ 1 and 2, of Law 9,514/97). The Superior Court of Justice treats a bid below 50% of the appraised value as a vile price (AgInt nos EDcl no REsp

1,931,921/SP, 2021), a prohibition that REsp 2,096,465/SP also applies to out-of-court enforcement.

2.2 Law 13,465/2017: Updates and Modernizations

Law 13,465/2017 brought important updates to the auction market, especially with regard to extrajudicial auctions, which now fall under this law in conjunction with Law 9,514/97.

2.3 The Role of the National Monetary Council (CMN)

The CMN is the body responsible for defining which entities may operate in the SFI, as provided in Article 2 of Law 9,514/97.

2.4 Certificates of Real Estate Receivables (CRI) and Securitization

Real estate credit securitization companies aim to acquire and securitize these credits and issue and place on the financial market Certificates of Real Estate Receivables (CRI). This mechanism allows real estate credits to be transformed into tradable securities on the financial market, increasing liquidity in the sector.

2.5 The Constitution and Property Rights

The real estate auction, although a form of forced execution, respects the right to property provided for in the Constitution, as it occurs within a legal process that guarantees due process and full defense to the debtor.

Chapter 3: Two Types of Auctions

The auction can be held in judicial or extrajudicial form.

3.1 Extrajudicial Auction

In the extrajudicial auction, governed by Laws 9,514/97 and 13,465/2017, the extrajudicial auction of real estate is executed in cases of default of at least three installments of a property sold to the financial institution with fiduciary alienation.

How it works:

1. The citizen bought an apartment with financing 2. Did not pay three installments 3. Went to the extrajudicial auction process

The process:

The bank will send to the debtor, via the real estate registry office, written notification to pay the overdue and adjusted installments, according to a spreadsheet that will accompany the notification. The debtor will normally have 15 days to pay the debt in full and at the office.

Otherwise, the financial institution may pay the ITBI (Real Estate Transfer Tax) and secure the property in its favor. Within 30 days of consolidation, the property may be put up for auction and is purchased.

How to prevent the auction:

The only way to prevent the property from being auctioned is through a court action informing the judiciary the reasons for the default, and proposing to pay the full debt at once, depositing the amounts in a court-linked account attached to the proceedings, or in case the creditor accepts an agreement on the installment plan of the debt.

3.2 Judicial Auction

It occurs through a court action to collect debt on the property itself, which can vary between condominium fees or unpaid property taxes.

How to suspend a judicial auction:

In this case, suspension of the auction will only occur with payment of the full debt or if the creditor accepts an agreement on the installment plan of the debt.

3.3 The Difference Between 1st and 2nd Call

In judicial auctions, there are two calls:

1st call: The property is offered at the appraised value. If there are no bids, it proceeds to the 2nd call.

2nd call: The property is offered again, with a minimum bid set by the judge and the notice. Law prohibits so-called "vile price" sales, and bids far below the appraised value may be annulled. The STJ has accepted, in specific circumstances, a bid below 50% of the appraisal (REsp 2,039,253/SP, 2023), so the floor is not absolute. Check the floor that applies to your case with a lawyer.

It is in the 2nd call that opportunities often appear, but the discount depends on the notice and the legal floor against vile price.

Chapter 4: Who Can and Cannot Participate

4.1 Legal Persons and Natural Persons: Basic Requirements

Any person over 18 years old, natural or legal, can participate in an auction.

To participate, it is necessary:

• To appear at the location where the auction will be held as stated in the notice, carrying personal documents

• Or participate online by doing early registration on the auctioneer's website

4.2 Restrictions in Article 890 of the Code of Civil Procedure

The following may not bid on the assets and situations indicated in Article 890 of the Code of Civil Procedure:

• Guardians, curators, executors, administrators and liquidators, regarding the assets entrusted to their care and responsibility

• Attorneys-in-fact, regarding the assets whose administration or sale they are in charge of

• Judges, members of the Public Prosecutor's Office and Public Defender's Office, court clerks and other court staff, in the locality where they serve

• Auctioneers and their agents, regarding the assets whose sale they are in charge of

• Attorneys of either party

4.3 Minors: Is It Possible?

No. Participation in an auction requires full legal capacity, that is, being 18 years old.

4.4 Foreigners: Special Rules

Foreigners can participate in auctions in Brazil, but must observe specific rules, which will be detailed in Chapter 26 (Bonus).

3.4 Auction Stage, Sale and Second Auction: three concepts that get confused

The word "praça" does not have the same meaning in the two regimes, and this confuses investors.

In a judicial auction, the first praça is the sale at the appraised value of the property. If there is no bid, a second praça is held, with a minimum bid set by the judge and the notice. If no minimum is fixed, a bid below 50% of the appraisal is vile (art. 891, sole paragraph, of the Code of Civil Procedure).

In an out-of-court auction, Law 9,514/97 speaks of a first auction and a second auction, not praças. In the first auction, the minimum bid is the property value set in the contract (art. 24, VI). If that value is lower than the ITBI tax base used by the competent body when ownership is consolidated, the latter becomes the minimum for the first auction (art. 24, §1, as introduced by MP 1,162/2023; its validity is not safely confirmed, and a lawyer should check it). This rule must be read together with the STJ's Theme 1113: the existence of a municipal reference value does not by itself make that value legitimate for tax purposes. Check which value was adopted in the notice.

The second out-of-court auction has its own rule: the minimum bid is the debt, with expenses and charges, and for non-housing credit the creditor may accept a bid of at least half the appraised value (art. 27, §2). The STJ does not accept a bid below 50% of the appraisal in that case (REsp 2,096,465/SP). Even so, the STJ has said the 50% floor is not absolute: in specific circumstances it has accepted a bid below 50% (REsp 2,039,253/SP, 2023). Do not count on that exception when planning a bid.

Practice exercise — Part I

1. Explain in your own words the difference between a judicial and an out-of-court auction.

2. Which law governs fiduciary sale of real estate, and what happens when the debtor defaults?

Map of the out-of-court process, from the notice to taking possession (Law 9,514/97)

1. Default: the debtor stops paying the installments (art. 26).

2. Notice and purging: the debtor is personally notified and has 15 days to pay the debt (art. 26, §§ 1 and 3).

3. Consolidation of ownership: ownership passes to the creditor in the property registry.

4. Auction: within 60 days of consolidation, the property goes to auction, with notice to the debtor of the date (art. 27 and art. 27, §2-A).

5. First auction: the minimum bid is the property value set in the contract (art. 24, VI).

6. Second auction: 15 days later, with a minimum bid tied to the debt and the 50% limits (art. 27, §§ 1 and 2).

7. Sale and certificate: the buyer pays and receives the certificate, which is recorded in the registry (art. 30).

8. Taking possession: a request to the court or a separate action, with an occupancy fee of 1% per month (arts. 30 and 37-A).

PART II — THE PATH

Chapter 5: The Notice — The Bible of the Deal

5.1 What It Is and Where to Find It

Because it is a bidding process, all auctions have a notice, which must be announced in advance, with wide publicity and circulation, whether printed or digital.

Where to find:

• Large-circulation newspapers publish auction notices and reports. • Auctioneer websites • Court websites

5.2 Essential Information in the Notice

Must state the main information about the asset, such as:

Conventional purchase and auction, side by side:

Aspect	Conventional purchase	Auction purchase
Negotiation	Direct with the seller	Through bidding at auction
Price	Negotiated with the market	Winning bid
Property condition	Free inspection	In the condition it is in
Debts	Seller pays off	May be assumed by the buyer
Time	Flexible	Set by the notice

5.3 How to Interpret the Legal Language of the Notice

Notices are written in legal language, which can be intimidating for beginners. It is essential to:

1. Read the entire notice — not just the summary 2. Identify the most important clauses — occupancy, debts, minimum value 3. Seek professional help if there are doubts

Chapter 6: Where to Find Auctions

6.1 Major Newspapers

Large-circulation newspapers publish auction notices in their classified sections and in dedicated sections. purchases.

6.2 Official Auctioneer Websites

Each auctioneer maintains a website where they publish their notices and hold online auctions.

6.3 Court Justice Portals

The Justice Courts of the states publish notices of judicial auctions on their portals.

6.4 Digital Platforms That Bring Together Multiple Auctioneers

Digital platforms bring together properties from several auctioneers. Before using one, check the integrity and registration of the auctioneers listed.

6.5 How to Set Up Alerts to Not Miss Opportunities

Practical tip: Register on the websites of the main auctioneers and set up email alerts to receive notifications when new notices are published.

Chapter 7: How to Make a Bid

7.1 In-Person Auction: Required Documents and Procedures

To participate in an in-person auction, it is necessary:

1. Attend the location indicated in the notice 2. Carry personal documents (ID, CPF) 3. Be attentive to the auctioneer's conduct 4. Make verbal bids during the bidding

7.2 Online Auction: Early Registration and Bidding Strategies

To participate in an online auction:

1. Register early on the auctioneer's website 2. Submit required documentation 3. Deposit a security deposit (in some notices, 5% of minimum bid) 4. Make bids through the platform on the scheduled date

7.3 Strategies to Win at the Lowest Possible Price

1. Set your maximum bid before the auction — and don't exceed it 2. Participate in auctions with few bidders — less competition 3. Make bids in the final minute — avoids inflating the price before time 4. Don't let emotions carry you — discipline is the key

7.4 What to Do If You Lose the Bid

If you lose the bid, don't be discouraged. The auction market offers opportunities every day. Analyze what went wrong and prepare for the next one.

7.5 Psychology of the Auction: How Not to Be Carried Away by Emotion

The auction is an emotional environment. The auctioneer is trained to create a sense of urgency and competition. To avoid falling into this trap:

• Have your maximum bid defined and don't change it during the auction • Remember: there will be other properties for sale, in other

auctions • Take a deep breath before making a bid

Chapter 8: The Role of the Auctioneer

8.1 Who They Are and What Their Functions Are

The auctioneer is the professional responsible for conducting the auction, receiving bids and declaring the winner.

8.2 Requirements to Be an Auctioneer

The profession of auctioneer will be exercised by means of registration granted by the commercial boards of the Federal District, the states and the Acre territory.

To be an auctioneer, it is necessary:

• To be a Brazilian citizen • To be in the enjoyment of your civil and political rights • To be over 25 years old • To be domiciled in the place where you intend to practice the profession for more than five years

• To have proven integrity with the presentation of identity card and negative certificates from the registry offices

• To present a negative certificate of lawsuits or executions filed against him in the Federal Civil Court and local corresponding to his domicile and relating to the last five years

May not be auctioneers:

• Those who were previously removed from this profession, except if they were removed at their request

• Bankrupts not rehabilitated • Rehabilitated persons when bankruptcy has been classified as negligent or fraudulent

8.3 Guarantee and Legal Responsibilities

The auctioneer, after being properly qualified before the commercial boards, is obligated, by court order of the same boards, to provide a guarantee in money or in a federal government bond.

8.4 How to Check If an Auctioneer Is Trustworthy

1. Consult the auctioneer's registration at the Commercial Board 2. Check if there are lawsuits against him 3. Research the auctioneer's reputation on the internet 4. Ask for references from other investors

Practice exercise — Part II

1. Before bidding, which documents should you check in the notice and in the property registration?

2. If the notice sets a minimum bid above the market value you calculated, what would you do?

PART III — THE BUSINESS

Chapter 9: The Purchase — The Moment of Truth

9.1 What Happens After the Winning Bid

After the winning bid, the buyer must:

1. Pay the bid value (or down payment, if paid in installments) 2. Await homologation by the judge (in judicial auctions) 3. Register the purchase at the real estate registry office

9.2 Homologation by the Judge: What It Means and How Long It Takes

In the case of judicial auctions, the sale is made through a legal process, and the judge will homologate or reject the purchase. Homologation can take from a few days to several months, depending on the complexity of the case.

9.3 The Payment: Cash, Installment or Financed?

Many financial institutions have facilitated negotiation, spread the value of the purchase and, in many cases, even financed the winning bid, with terms almost as long as a mortgage and with rates that vary by institution.

9.4 Costs Beyond the Bid

Cost	Description
ITBI	Real Estate Transfer Tax (SP: 3%)
Registry Fees (Emoluments)	Property registration (0.5-1%)
Auctioneer Fees	Commission on bid (min. 5%)
Retroactive Debts	Property taxes, condo (Variable)
Registration of Purchase	Registry office (Variable)

9.5 Financing After the Auction

In bank auctions, such as those of Caixa, the notice may allow financed payment. Rules that usually appear:

1. Down payment: in Caixa auctions, the down payment is usually at least 5% of the minimum sale price, paid within 2 business days after approval. Check the notice. 2. Financing and FGTS: allowed only when the property listing says so. It is not a general rule. 3. Financed percentage: promotional material mentions up to 95%, but the actual amount depends on the notice and the bank's approval. Treat any figure as a starting point, not a guarantee. 4. Auctioneer fee: minimum of 5% of the amount bid, paid by the buyer (art. 24, sole paragraph, of Decree 21,981/1932). Check the notice. 5. Second auction: if the first auction has no winning bid, the second auction takes place within 15 days, with a minimum bid that can be lower, but never below 50% of the appraised value (art. 27, §2, of Law 9,514/97, as amended by Law 14,711/2023).

Before relying on financing, confirm with the bank the required income, documents, property appraisal, maximum term and fees. Because the property is held under fiduciary sale, a buyer in default loses the right to pay off the debt and recover the property once ownership is consolidated: according to the Brazilian Superior Court of Justice (Theme 1,288, REsp 2,126,726/SP), once ownership is consolidated under Law 13,465/2017 there is no longer a right to cure the default; the debtor keeps only a right of first refusal (art. 27, §2-B, of Law 9,514/97).

The figures in this text come from press reports and 2026 auction notices. Always confirm them in the notice of each property.

Chapter 10: Taking Possession — How to Take the Property

10.1 Unoccupied Property: The Fastest Path

If the property is unoccupied, taking possession is immediate. The buyer can take possession as soon as payment is made and the purchase is homologated.

10.2 Occupied Property: How to Proceed

If the property is occupied, the situation is more complex. In this case:

1. Check in the notice if occupancy is reported 2. Try an out-of-court settlement with the occupant 3. If necessary, file an action for taking possession

10.3 Taking Possession: Out-of-Court or Judicial

The path depends on how the auction was held.

In an out-of-court auction, governed by Law 9.514/97, the buyer has the right to take possession once the auction certificate is recorded in the property registry (art. 30). If the occupant does not leave, a possession action may be filed. While the occupant stays, an occupancy fee of 1% per month, calculated on the property value stated in the contract for out-of-court auction, is due from the auction to the date of possession (art. 37-A, as amended by Law 14.711/2023). A lawsuit challenging the auction, without a decision suspending the procedure, generally does not prevent possession, according to decisions of state courts. This is not a guarantee: check your case with a lawyer.

In a judicial auction, possession follows the expropriation rules of the Code of Civil Procedure. Deadlines and remedies differ and must be checked with a lawyer.

Warning: the occupant may allege that the procedure was invalid. Read the notice of auction and the property registration before bidding. The law requires personal notice to the debtor for purging the default (art. 26, §3, of Law 9,514/97, as amended by Law 14,711/2023), and an edictal notice is valid only after all attempts to locate the debtor have failed. The debtor must also be notified by mail, at the addresses in the contract, of the date, time and place of the auction (art. 27, §2-A). The Superior Court of Justice treats personal notice of the auction date as the rule, and the nullity may not be declared when the debtor shows clear awareness, for example by filing an action to suspend the auction (AgInt no AREsp 1,678,642/SP, Rapporteur Justice Ricardo Villas Bôas Cueva, 3rd Panel, judged on 01/03/2021, DJe 09/03/2021). In that case, clear awareness arose from a precautionary action filed by the debtors to stop the auction, and reviewing that finding was barred by Súmula 7 of the STJ. A power of attorney to sue, by itself, is not enough. In April 2026, the STJ reported the annulment of two auctions for lack of personal notice of the date (official STJ news, 13/04/2026). Check the notice and the case file before bidding.

10.4 Timeframes and Legal Costs

Aspect	Estimate
Time for voluntary eviction	15 to 30 days
Time for judicial eviction	6 months to 2 years
Legal costs	Lawyer, court fees, expertise

10.5 Out-of-Court Settlements with Occupants

Often, it is faster and cheaper to make an agreement with the occupant (payment for "turnkey") than to file a judicial action.

10.6 Extreme Cases: Reintegration of Possession with Police Force

In extreme cases, it may be necessary to use police force to reintegrate possession. This is an expensive, time-consuming and emotionally draining procedure.

10.7 What to Do If the Occupant Is Elderly, a Child or Person with Disability

The eviction of properties occupied by the elderly, children or people with disabilities is more difficult and lengthy, as justice tends to be more protective with these groups.

Chapter 11: Renovation and Appreciation

11.1 Assessing the Property's Condition

Before buying, assess the condition of the property. If possible, do an inspection. If not possible, be prepared for surprises.

11.2 Essential Renovations vs. Aesthetic Renovations

Type of Renovation	Description / Priority
Essential	Structure, electrical, plumbing roof — HIGH PRIORITY
Aesthetic	Painting, flooring, finishing — MEDIUM PRIORITY
Luxury	Decoration, landscaping — LOW PRIORITY

11.3 Budget: How Not to Go Over Plan

1. Do a detailed budget before renovation 2. Add a 30% reserve for unexpected expenses 3. Research suppliers before contracting

11.4 The Impact of Renovation on Sale Price

A well-done renovation can increase the property's value by 20-40%. A poorly-done renovation may add no value or even reduce the price.

11.5 When It's Worth It to Sell in the Current Condition

In some cases, it's better to sell the property in the condition it is in for investors who prefer to do the renovation themselves.

Chapter 12: The Sale — Realized Profit

12.1 Pricing: How to Arrive at Fair Market Price

1. Research similar properties in the region (Zap Imóveis, VivaReal) 2. Consult FipeZap for reference 3. Consider location, condition and size of the property

12.2 Sales Strategies

Strategy	Advantage / Disadvantage
Traditional Real Estate Agents	Reach, expertise / High commission (negotiable)
Direct Sale (OLX, Zap, Viva)	Save commissions / Seller's work
Sale to Other Investors	Quick sale / Lower price
Auction Again	Quick sale / Below market price

12.3 Average Sale Time: 12 Months (and How to Reduce It)

The average sale takes about 12 months, in the author's experience, and varies by case. To reduce this timeframe:

1. Price competitively 2. Invest in professional photos 3. Prepare the property for viewings 4. Advertise on multiple platforms

12.4 Negotiation: Giving Discount to Sell Quickly

Sometimes, giving a small 3-4% discount can speed up the sale and increase your ROI (Return on Investment) in the long run.

12.5 Taxation of the Sale: When Tax Applies to the Gain

When you sell the property for more than the acquisition cost, the difference is a capital gain, subject to personal income tax at progressive rates: 15% up to R$ 5 million of gain; 17.5% from R$ 5 million to R$ 10 million; 20% from R$ 10 million to R$ 30 million; and 22.5% above R$ 30 million. There are two important exemptions:

1. A single property sold for up to R$ 440,000, with no other sale in the last 5 years (art. 23 of Law 9,250/95; Solução de Consulta Cosit 264/2023). 2. Sale of a residential property with the full proceeds reinvested in another residential property in Brazil within 180 days (art. 39 of Law 11,196/2005). Partial reinvestment reduces the exemption proportionally. The Federal Revenue accepts the purchase of ready, off-plan or under-construction residential property from a third party (Solução de Consulta Cosit 108/2026). There is no exemption when the proceeds are used to build on land the taxpayer already owns, or to repay financing for construction (Solução de Consulta Cosit 108/2026).

The taxable gain is calculated in the GCAP system and paid by DARF. Even when exempt, the sale must be reported in the tax return. This text is informational and does not replace the advice of an accountant.

ITBI in São Paulo: the general rate is 3%, under Municipal Law 11,154/1991. Under Tema 1113 of the Brazilian Superior Court of Justice (First Section, judged on 24/02/2022), the tax base is the value of the property transferred under normal market conditions. The value declared by the taxpayer is presumed consistent with the market, and the municipality may not set the base in advance using a unilateral reference value. Recent legislative changes exist, and their validity should be checked. Confirm the base with the city hall and an accountant before any calculation. Other cities have different rates and criteria.

Practice exercise — Part III

1. List the costs that must be included in your calculation before bidding.

2. In which situations does taking possession tend to take longer?

PART IV — THE STRATEGY

Chapter 13: The Mathematics of Profit

13.1 ROI (Return on Investment): How to Calculate

ROI (Return on Investment) measures profit relative to total investment.

Formula: ROI = (Profit / Total Investment) × 100

Practical Example:

• Property bought for R$ 180,000 • Costs (renovation, taxes, etc.): R$ 50,000 • Total investment: R$ 230,000 • Sale for R$ 320,000 • Profit: R$ 90,000

ROI = (90,000 / 230,000) × 100 = 39.1%

13.2 ROE (Return on Equity): A Complementary Indicator

ROE (Return on Equity) measures return on own capital invested.

Formula: ROE = (Profit / Own Capital) × 100

13.3 Step-by-Step Practical Example

Step 1: Identify the property at auction - Market value: R$ 350,000 - Minimum bid: R$ 180,000

Step 2: Participate in the auction - Winning bid: R$ 180,000

Step 3: Additional costs - Renovation: R$ 40,000 - ITBI (3% on R$ 180,000, tax base to be confirmed with the city hall): R$ 5,400 - Auctioneer commission (minimum 5% of the bid): R$ 9,000 - Total auction costs: R$ 54,400

Step 4: Sale - Estimated sale price: R$ 320,000 - Real estate agent commission (6%, negotiable): R$ 19,200

Step 5: Profit calculation - Total investment: R$ 180,000 + R$ 54,400 = R$ 234,400 - Net sale revenue: R$ 320,000 − R$ 19,200 = R$ 300,800 - Profit: R$ 300,800 − R$ 234,400 = R$ 66,400 - ROI: R$ 66,400 ÷ R$ 234,400 = 28.3% This example assumes the ITBI base equals the bid and does not consider capital gains tax, which may be exempt under section 12.5.

13.4 Calculation Spreadsheet: Download and Use

We have included an ROI calculation spreadsheet in Appendix C. Download and use it for your analyses.

Chapter 14: Comparison with Other Investments

14.1 Savings, CDI, Selic, REITs and Auctions: Verified Data

The figures below come from public sources, with the date of each figure. They measure different things, as explained at the end of this section.

Indicator	Value	Source and date
Savings account (rule: 0.5% per month + TR)	8.32% over 12 months	Central Bank of Brazil, to May 2026
CDI	14.77% over 12 months	Central Bank of Brazil, July 2026
Selic (target)	14.25% per year	Copom, August 2026
IFIX (real estate funds)	8.24% over 12 months	B3, to August 2026
IFIX dividend yield	12.53% per year	BB Análise, August 2026
Ibovespa	25.45% over 12 months	B3, via Elos Ayta, to August 2026
Property auction	30% to 60% discount	Cases in Chapter 22

Why the figures are not directly comparable: savings, the CDI and the Selic are annual rates of fixed-income investments. IFIX measures the change in fund unit prices plus dividends. The auction discount is the difference between the price paid and the market value at the time of purchase, not an annual yield. The real return depends on term, costs, taxes and the time the property sits without income. For this reason, this book does not claim that auctions yield more than other investments. The cases in Chapter 22 show results between 0% and 59%, over periods of up to 2 years.

14.2 Fixed income: Tesouro Selic and CDBs

Tesouro Selic tracks the Selic rate, currently 14.25% per year. The CDI, the benchmark for much of fixed income, accumulated 14.77% over 12 months to July 2026. These yields vary with interest rates and are not guaranteed in the future. With the Selic above 8.5% per year, savings yield 0.5% per month plus TR, well below liquid fixed income.

14.3 Stock exchange (Ibovespa)

The Ibovespa rose 25.45% over 12 months to August 2026, and 10.11% year to date, according to B3 closing data compiled by Elos Ayta and Monitor do Mercado. In August it fell 0.33%. The last close published by B3 at the time of consultation was 183,477 points, on September 25, 2026.

14.4 Real estate investment funds (REITs)

IFIX accumulated 8.24% over 12 months to August 2026, and had an annualized dividend yield of 12.53% in August, according to BB Análise. REIT returns include monthly dividends, but unit prices fluctuate and can fall.

14.5 Cryptocurrencies

This item has been removed from this edition, because there is no verified figure to compare it with the others.

14.6 Why Real Estate Auctions Are More Predictable

Unlike stocks or cryptocurrencies, the value of a property is relatively stable in the short term. Nowadays, property prices are easy to check by anyone using available digital resources on the internet. Furthermore, property prices do not vary much in the short term. If you buy a property today, a year from now its value will not be much different.

Chapter 15: The 3 Pillars of Success

For the real return to be achieved, certain conditions must be met:

15.1 First Pillar: Avoid Competition

Look for auctions where there will be less competition.

Strategies:

• Auctions in smaller cities • Properties with some "defect" that scares beginners • Strategic times and dates (weekday auctions, business hours)

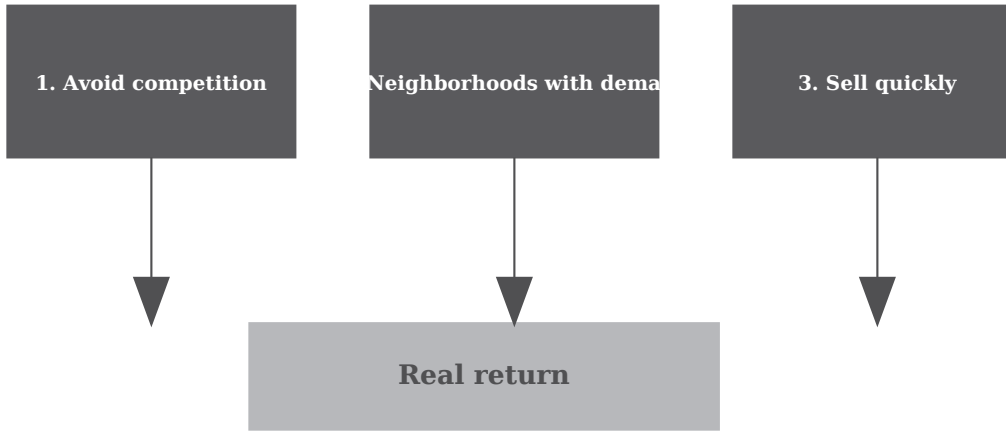

15.2 Second Pillar: Choose Neighborhoods with Demand

Seek properties with interested buyers. There's no point in buying a property in a distant neighborhood where no one is looking. On the contrary, look for centralized neighborhoods with more property searches.

15.3 Third Pillar: Sell Quickly

Good property, located in a good neighborhood, with a small 3-4% discount, has a better chance of being sold quickly.

15.4 The Interaction Between the Pillars

Chapter 16: The Magic of Compound Interest Applied to Auctions

16.1 One Deal Per Year: Is It Possible?

Considering that the average sale takes about 12 months, it is possible to do one deal per year. With a little experience and dedication, you can find a property per year.

16.2 Projection for 10 Years

Considering, as an illustrative assumption, an annual return of 35%:

Period	Wealth (starting from R$ 100k)
10 years	R$ 2,000,000

16.3 Compound Growth: Buffett's Example (Berkshire data) and an Illustrative 35% per Year Assumption

Warren Buffett, one of the best-known investors in the world, achieved, at Berkshire Hathaway, a compound annual return of 19.8% between 1965 and 2023, according to the company's own data, with earnings reinvested.

With an annual return of 20%, investing R$ 100,000 today:

Period	Wealth (starting from R$ 100k)
10 years	R$ 620,000

With 35% ROE (real estate auction):

Period	Wealth (starting from R$ 100k)
10 years	R$ 2,000,000

16.4 The Limits of the Model: When Wealth Becomes Too Large

Obviously, the larger your wealth becomes, the harder it will be to find large-value properties to continue this multiplication. But with this example alone, you can see that it is possible to achieve great returns with properties in auctions.

When you have 40 million, you won't buy 100k properties anymore. You'll have to buy larger properties. 40 million will be a portfolio of properties, then you'll already need technical support, sometimes a specialized real estate sales office. That is, you will grow along with it.

Chapter 17: Diversification and Risk Management

17.1 Why Not Put All Money in One Property

Diversification is a valid strategy to reduce risks and not depend on one or two investments.

17.2 Combining Auctions with Fixed Income and Stocks

If you are young, with few commitments and a lot of time ahead, you have more room for risk-taking, considering that the consequences will be better and you will have plenty of time to recover from any loss.

However, if you are older, with more commitments and responsibilities, with less time to live, what you would like to do is invest in more secure and less volatile assets.

17.3 The Real Estate Portfolio: When Wealth Grows, Business Changes

As your wealth grows, you will need:

• Technical support • Specialized real estate sales office • Lawyers and accountants

17.4 Balancing Real Estate and Other Assets

Diversification should be used in this balance between high and low risk investments. What makes the most sense to me is: diversify.

Practice exercise — Part IV

1. Calculate the ROI of a deal with a purchase of R$ 200,000, costs of R$ 40,000 and a sale of R$ 300,000, ignoring taxes.

2. Why does comparing the auction discount with savings require care?

PART V — THE DANGER

Chapter 18: The Real Risks (That No One Tells You About)

18.1 Occupancy Risk: The Hidden Cost

The property may be occupied. If it is occupied, the possibility of judicially requesting taking possession may take some time, in addition to more legal costs. Eviction can take from 6 months to 2 years.

18.2 Legal Risk: Debts and Incomplete Documentation

The property may have hidden debts (property taxes, condominium fees, liens) that may become the responsibility of the new owner. It is essential to analyze the property's registration at the real estate registry office.

18.3 Renovation Risk: Budget Exceeded

The property may be in poor condition, requiring renovations that exceed the planned budget. Always add a 30% reserve for unexpected expenses.

18.4 Liquidity Risk: Property Stuck

The property may take more than 12 months to sell, tying up the investor's capital.

18.5 Competition Risk: Bid Too High

The bid may be inflated by competition, eroding profit.

18.6 Macroeconomic Risk: Interest Rates, Inflation and Crisis

The real estate market can be affected by economic crises, rising interest rates and inflation.

Chapter 19: How to Avoid Scams and False Promises

19.1 The "Property with 94% Discount" Scam

Be wary of promises of miraculous discounts. Real discounts usually range from 30% to 60% of market value, not 94%.

19.2 Be Wary of "Miracle Course" Sellers

Many course sellers promise to get rich with auctions, but have never participated in an auction in their lives.

19.3 How to Verify Auctioneer's Integrity

1. Consult the auctioneer's registration at the Commercial Board 2. Check if there are lawsuits against him 3. Research reputation on the internet

19.4 Consulting Negative Certificates and Records

Always request negative certificates of lawsuits or executions filed against the auctioneer at the Federal Civil Court and local corresponding to your domicile and relating to the last five years.

19.5 Fake Websites and Phishing: How to Protect Yourself

• Always verify the auctioneer's website domain • Don't click on suspicious links • Confirm the website address directly with the auctioneer

Chapter 20: When Not to Buy a Property at Auction

20.1 Red Flags in the Notice

• Occupancy not reported • Debts not specified • Minimum value very low (may indicate serious problems) • Incomplete documentation

20.2 Properties with Serious Structural Problems

• Cracks • Water infiltration • Foundation problems • Condemnation by city hall

20.3 Neighborhoods with Low Demand or Violence

• Low property demand • Rising violence • Continuous devaluation

20.4 Occupancy by Elderly, Child or Person with Disability

Eviction of properties occupied by these groups is more difficult and lengthy.

20.5 Properties in Rural or Border Areas (For Foreigners)

For foreigners, purchasing rural or border area properties requires authorization from INCRA or the National Defense Council.

20.6 When the Discount Does Not Justify the Risk

If the discount is small (less than 30%), the risk may not be worth it. Assess whether the profit potential justifies the risk.

Practice exercise — Part V

1. Name three signs of a scam or a problematic notice.

2. In which situation should you walk away from an auction, even with a large discount?

PART VI — THE PRACTICE

Chapter 21: Your First Auction — Complete Checklist

21.1 Month 1: Study and Preparation

☐ Read this book twice ☐ Set aside capital (minimum R$ 50,000 to start) ☐ Keep your CPF up to date and open a bank account

21.2 Month 2: Property Selection and Notice Analysis

☐ Analyze 10 notices per day ☐ Create a spreadsheet of opportunities ☐ Visit the properties (if possible)

21.3 Month 3: Participation and Purchase

☐ Set your maximum bid (don't exceed it!) ☐ Participate in 3 auctions as "training" ☐ Purchase your first property

21.4 Post-Purchase: Documents and Payment

☐ Pay the bid (or down payment) ☐ Await homologation (if judicial) ☐ Register the purchase at the registry office

21.5 After Taking Possession: Renovation and Sale Preparation

☐ Assess the property's condition ☐ Do essential renovations ☐ Prepare property for sale

Chapter 22: Real Case Studies

How to read the numbers in this chapter: ROI is profit divided by total investment, which adds up purchase, costs and renovation. Values are rounded. The origin of each case is shown in the label that accompanies it.

22.1 Case 1: The Apartment in Vila Madalena (The Author's Case) [LABEL: FIRST-HAND ACCOUNT, NO DOCUMENTS ATTACHED]

In August, I purchased an apartment in Vila Madalena, São Paulo, for R$ 180,000. I spent over R$ 50,000 on other expenses. Time passed, and I resold the property for R$ 320,000. This is a profit of R$ 90,000 in less than 12 months.

Item	Value
Purchase	R$ 180,000
Costs	R$ 50,000
Investment	R$ 230,000
Sale	R$ 320,000
Profit	R$ 90,000
ROI	39.1%

22.2 Case 2: Occupied Property That Took 2 Years to Evict [LABEL: ILLUSTRATIVE, NO DOCUMENTS ATTACHED]

An investor bought an occupied property for R$ 150,000. Judicial eviction took 2 years and cost R$ 40,000 in lawyer fees and court costs. In the end, sold for R$ 250,000.

Item	Value
Purchase	R$ 150,000
Eviction Costs	R$ 40,000
Renovation	R$ 20,000
Total Investment	R$ 210,000
Sale	R$ 250,000
Profit	R$ 40,000
ROI	19% (in 2 years)

22.3 Case 3: The Auction with Fierce Competition That Wiped Out the Profit [LABEL: ILLUSTRATIVE, NO DOCUMENTS ATTACHED]

An investor got into fierce bidding and paid R$ 300,000 for a property appraised at R$ 350,000. Costs were R$ 70,000. Fierce competition wiped out all the profit.

Item	Value
Purchase	R$ 300,000
Costs	R$ 70,000
Investment	R$ 370,000
Sale	R$ 370,000
Profit	R$ 0
ROI	0%

22.4 Case 4: The Property That Yielded 59% Profit in 6 Months [LABEL: ILLUSTRATIVE, NO DOCUMENTS ATTACHED]

An investor bought a property at auction for R$ 200,000, a property appraised at R$ 300,000. Spent R$ 20,000 on renovation and sold for R$ 350,000.

Item	Value
Purchase	R$ 200,000
Costs	R$ 20,000
Investment	R$ 220,000
Sale	R$ 350,000
Profit	R$ 130,000
ROI	59.1% (in 6 months)

22.5 Case 5: A Beginner's First Auction (Mistakes and Successes) [LABEL: ILLUSTRATIVE, NO DOCUMENTS ATTACHED]

A beginner bought a property without doing an inspection. Discovered it needed R$ 50,000 in renovations that hadn't been foreseen. However, the property was in a valued neighborhood and sold quickly.

Item	Value
Purchase	R$ 160,000
Expected Costs	R$ 10,000

Item	Value
Unexpected Costs	R$ 50,000
Investment	R$ 220,000
Sale	R$ 280,000
Profit	R$ 60,000
ROI	27.3%

Chapter 23: Tools and Useful Resources

23.1 Websites to Check Property Values

• Zap Imóveis: www.zapimoveis.com.br • VivaReal: www.vivareal.com.br • FipeZap: Real estate price index

23.2 Auction Search Systems

• Official auctioneer websites • Court portals • Digital platforms that bring together multiple auctioneers

23.3 Spreadsheets to Calculate ROI and Costs

We have included an ROI calculation spreadsheet in Appendix C.

23.4 Contract Templates and Necessary Documents

• Model purchase and sale contract • Model power of attorney for representation • Model out-of-court settlement for eviction

23.5 Applications for Auction Monitoring

• Email alerts • Auction notification applications • RSS feeds from notices

23.6 Groups and Communities of Investors

• Groups on WhatsApp and Telegram • Real estate investment forums • In-person events and meetings

Practice exercise — Part VI

1. Build the checklist for your first auction, from the notice to taking possession.

2. Which checks would you make before hiring a lawyer for a specific case?

PART VII — THE FUTURE

Chapter 24: The Real Estate Auction Market in Brazil

24.1 Growth in Recent Years

Brazilians discovered this possibility and started making bids to buy their own homes paying much less. Furthermore, many financial institutions loaded with repossessed properties that needed to be sold facilitated negotiation.

24.2 The Role of Technology and Online Auctions

Digital platforms bring together properties from several auctioneers. The vast majority of auctions today occur online, making it easier for investors from across the country to participate.

24.3 What to Expect for the Next 10 Years

Large-circulation newspapers publish auction notices in their classified sections and in dedicated sections.

24.4 The Impact of Artificial Intelligence on Opportunity Analysis

Artificial intelligence can help:

• Follow notices regularly • Identify opportunities with high profit potential • Predict property market value • Evaluate legal and occupancy risks

24.5 New Laws and Regulations

The auction market continues to evolve, with new laws that may facilitate or hinder investment. It is important to stay updated.

Chapter 25: The Lion and the Gazelle — The Investor's Mindset

25.1 The Importance of Patience

The true investor waits. There are no shortcuts. Nobody becomes a millionaire in three years driving a Ferrari or Lamborghini: the image shared online does not represent most investors. It might exist for someone, but generally it does not exist in the financial market.

25.2 Don't Fall in Love with the Property (Only with the Numbers)

Always keep in mind that the property is an investment, not a house to live in. Decisions should be based on numbers, not emotion.

25.3 Learn from Mistakes and Move Forward

Every investor makes mistakes. The important thing is to learn from them and move forward.

25.4 Building Generational Wealth

I always give the example: imagine Uncle Scrooge. He didn't like to lose a penny, didn't spend on anything. That is the mathematics.

25.5 The Responsibility of Teaching and Helping Other Investors

In addition, it is necessary to study and specialize, or have someone who does it. Even if you have someone, you will also have to study to understand what you are doing with your money, so you don't come out with those stories in the news — "I didn't see what he did with my money and lost everything".

BONUS CHAPTERS

Chapter 26 (Bonus): How Foreigners Can Invest in Auctions in Brazil

26.1 Fundamental Requirements: CPF and Documentation

The first and most important step for any foreigner interested in participating in an auction in Brazil is to obtain a CPF (Individual Taxpayer Registry). This is the tax identification number mandatory for any real estate transaction in the country.

How to obtain:

The process can be carried out through the Brazilian consular network in the country of residence of the investor. Registration can take a few weeks to complete.

Basic required documentation:

• Valid passport, or RNE for those who live in Brazil • CPF registration certificate • Proof of address (electricity, water bill or bank statement) • Power of attorney with specific powers, if using a representative in Brazil (must be apostilled and, if not in Portuguese, have a sworn translation; a power of attorney issued at a Brazilian consulate does not need apostille)

The RNE (National Registry of Foreigners) is the identity document of residents in Brazil. Non-residents may buy with a passport, provided they have a CPF. although it is not strictly necessary for a single purchase.

26.2 Opening a Bank Account and Foreign Exchange

Real estate purchases are normally paid in Brazilian reais (BRL). Therefore, the investor needs to plan the transfer of funds to an account in Brazil.

Bank account: It is advisable to open an account at a Brazilian bank to enable the transfer of funds.

Foreign exchange: Foreign exchange operations must be carried out through institutions authorized by the Central Bank of Brazil, and the investor must be prepared to provide documentation of the origin of the funds to comply with compliance requirements.

26.3 Auction Participation: Online and In-Person

The vast majority of real estate auctions in Brazil today occur online, which facilitates the participation of foreign investors.

Registration: The interested party must register on the auctioneer's platform before the auction date. This registration requires the presentation of a CPF and identity documentation.

Security deposit: Many auctions require the deposit of a security amount (usually 5% of minimum bid) to credential the participant.

26.4 The Notice and Due Diligence (Critical Analysis)

Prior analysis of the property (due diligence) is the most critical stage and cannot be neglected. Unlike traditional purchases, the property at auction is sold in the condition it is in.

The Notice: It is the document that governs the auction. Must be read carefully. It contains all information about the property, debts, occupancy and payment conditions.

Registration Research: The property's registration with the Real Estate Registry Office is the property's birth certificate. It is essential to analyze this document to verify the chain of ownership, the existence of liens, mortgages or other debts that "follow" the property.

26.5 Specific Restrictions: Rural Areas, Border and Marine Properties

While the acquisition of urban real estate is relatively free for foreigners, Law 5,709/71 imposes significant restrictions on rural properties and areas of national interest.

Rural Properties:

• Law 5,709/71, art. 1, allows the purchase of rural property only by a foreign resident in Brazil and by a foreign legal entity authorized to operate in Brazil. A non-resident, as a rule, cannot buy rural property through this route.

• A foreign natural person who is a resident may not acquire more than 50 modules of indefinite exploitation (art. 7 of Decree 74,965/1974).

• Property of up to 3 modules is free of authorization, but buying more than one such property by a natural person also requires authorization (art. 7, §§ 1 and 3).

• Between 3 and 50 modules, INCRA authorization is required. Above 20 modules, approval of the exploration project is also required (art. 7, §§ 2 and 4).

• Each municipality has a collective limit of 1/4 of its area for foreign-owned land, with no more than 40% of that limit per nationality (art. 5). It does not apply to areas under 3 modules, or to a foreigner married to a Brazilian or with a Brazilian child (art. 5, §2).

• A Brazilian legal entity with a majority of capital held by foreigners resident or based abroad is subject to the same regime (art. 1, §1, of the Decree).

• Donation of public land to foreigners is prohibited, and an acquisition that violates the rules is void (arts. 18 and 19).

• The rules also apply to mergers, acquisitions and changes of corporate control (art. 20).

Border Zone (up to 150 km from border): Purchasing urban or rural properties in these areas by foreigners depends on prior authorization from the National Defense Council.

Coastal Properties (Marine Land): Acquisition also faces restrictions.

Non-compliance with these rules can lead to nullity of the transaction.

26.6 Alternatives and Structures: Right to Surface, Partnership with Brazilian Partner

To bypass restrictions or optimize investment, alternative structures exist:

Right to Surface: Allows the foreigner (surface holder) to build or plant on property owned by a third party (grantor), without acquiring full property of the land. It is an alternative to economically exploit the property without facing restrictions on land purchase.

Partnership with Brazilian Partner: A joint venture with a Brazilian partner can enable transactions in the rural sector, diluting foreign control.

Usufruct: Another alternative is the constitution of a real property right of usufruct, which guarantees the foreigner the right to use and enjoy the property without being the full owner.

26.7 Specialized Legal Advice

A foreign investor should not act alone. Legal and bureaucratic complexity makes specialized legal advice support not just recommended, but essential.

Process Coordinator: A local law firm can act as a "command center", coordinating legal, exchange, property-analysis and registry aspects of the deal.

Prior Preparation: Legal advice can prepare the investor before even defining the asset, ensuring that the investment structure, documents and banking channels are ready for execution.

26.8 Summary Checklist for Foreign Investor

1. Obtain CPF 2. Open a bank account in Brazil (or plan foreign exchange transfer) 3. Select an urban property to avoid complex restrictions 4. Perform a complete prior analysis: analyze the notice, property registration, debts and occupancy situation

5. If necessary, seek authorizations (INCRA, CDN) in advance 6. Hire local legal advice to conduct the process 7. Set aside resources for costs beyond the bid (ITBI, fees, possible debts) 8. Participate in the auction with a predefined bid limit, avoiding getting involved in emotional disputes

Chapter 27 (Bonus): High-Value Auctions — How to Invest Above R$ 1 Million

27.1 The Luxury Real Estate Market at Auction

Luxury properties (above R$ 1 million) also go to auction. The discount may be lower (30-40%), but the absolute profit is higher.

27.2 Capital Raising: How to Raise Capital

To invest in high-value properties, it may be necessary:

• Consortium of investors • Financing • Partnership with other investors

27.3 Investor Consortium: Buying Syndicate

A buying syndicate is a group of investors who join together to buy a high-value property. Each investor contributes part of the capital and receives a proportional share of the profit.

27.4 Analysis of Commercial and Industrial Properties

In addition to residential properties, it is possible to invest in commercial (offices, stores) and industrial (warehouses, factories) properties at auction.

27.5 Strategic Exit: Sale to Investment Funds

High-value properties can be sold to real estate investment funds (FIIs), which pay a premium for stability and scale.

POSTFACE

A Final Message from Solomon Von Herclestein

When someone talks about investments, it is normal that our first reaction is to feel suspicious, thinking that the person who is talking wants to sell us something. Usually that's exactly what happens.

Our role is always to listen, try to understand and draw our own conclusions. Sometimes, when the subject is interesting, to study it to see if the truth really makes sense.

And that is how I want to talk about real estate investments via auction. The idea here is to plant a seed on the subject in your head so that later you seek knowledge and make it grow, and who knows if it transforms into the realization of your goals.

I hope this book helps you start with caution and knowledge.

Invitation to the Investor Community

I thank you for coming this far and having read all of this work.

I invite you to be part of the community of investors who invest in real estate auctions with knowledge and discipline.

2. Which market data would you update before publishing an analysis on this topic?

APPENDICES

Appendix A: Main Provisions of Law 9,514/97

Law No. 9,514, of November 20, 1997

Provides for the Real Estate Financing System, institutes the fiduciary alienation of real property and provides other provisions.

Article 1: The Real Estate Financing System (SFI) aims to promote real estate financing in general, under conditions compatible with the formation of respective funds.

Article 2: The following may operate in the SFI: Caixa Econômica Federal, commercial banks, investment banks, banks with real estate credit portfolios, real estate credit companies, savings and loan associations, mortgage companies and, at the discretion of the National Monetary Council (CMN), other entities.

Article 3: Real estate credit securitization companies, non-financial institutions established as joint-stock companies, shall aim to acquire and securitize these credits and issue and place on the financial market Certificates of Real Estate Receivables (CRI), being able to issue other securities, conduct business and provide services compatible with their activities.

Appendix D: How to Check the List of Official Auctioneers

The list of official auctioneers is kept by the Commercial Registry (Junta Comercial) of each state. An auctioneer may only operate if registered with the board of the state where they work.

Where to check (addresses verified in October 2026):

RJ: JUCERJA, www.jucerja.rj.gov.br (publishes the list of registered public auctioneers)

MG: JUCEMG, jucemg.mg.gov.br/pagina/139/leiloeiros-oficiais

AL: JUCEAL, juceal.al.gov.br/servicos/leiloeiros

ES: JUCEES, www.jucees.es.gov.br/servicos/leiloeiros/

SP: JUCESP, through the auctioneers section of the official São Paulo state government website Other states: search for "Junta Comercial do [state] leiloeiros" on the official state government website.

How to check whether an auctioneer is official:

1. Ask for the full name and the registration number with the Commercial Registry.

2. Check that number on the state board's website and confirm the name and number match.

3. Confirm the registration is active, without a license or suspension.

4. Ask for the registration certificate issued by the Commercial Registry, a document required in accreditation notices.

5. Be wary of PDF lists and websites that do not appear on the official list. JUCEMG reports it has detected fake lists and sites using auctioneers' names and the board's brand.

Note: the number of auctioneers per state is set by the commercial registries and may change. There is no fixed national number, and this appendix gives no figures.

Appendix E: Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

1. Is it Safe to Buy a Foreclosed Property?

Purchasing a property at auction is very attractive. However, this transaction can become complex for those without the legal knowledge necessary to conduct the business. To ensure a good deal and peace of mind in the purchase, it is essential to have specialized advice on property auctions.

2. What Is the Average Discount in Auctions?

Discounts vary by property, auction stage and notice. In practice, they usually range from 30% to 60% of market value.

3. Can I Finance the Purchase?

Many financial institutions have facilitated negotiation, spread the purchase value and, in many cases, even financed the winning bid, with terms almost as long as a mortgage and with rates that vary by institution.

4. What Happens If the Property Is Occupied?

If the property is occupied, the possibility of judicially requesting taking possession may take some time, in addition to more legal costs.

5. How Long Does It Take to Sell?

The average sale takes about 12 months, in the author's experience, and varies by case.

6. What Is the Average ROI?

The cases in Chapter 22 show ROI between 0% and 59%, after purchase, renovation and sale costs. The result of each deal depends on the case.

7. Can Foreigners Participate in Auctions in Brazil?

Yes. Foreigners can participate in auctions in Brazil, but must obtain a CPF and observe specific restrictions for rural properties and border areas.

Practical glossary

The terms below appear in the book. Each has a short explanation for quick reference.

Appraisal (avaliação): value of the property set by a valuation report, used as the reference for the auction.

Auction award (arrematação): purchase made at auction, in which the highest valid bid wins.

Auction certificate (carta de arrematação): document that proves the purchase and is recorded in the property registration.

Auction record (auto de arrematação): document signed by the judge, the buyer and the auctioneer, which makes the purchase irrevocable (art. 903 of the Code of Civil Procedure).

Auctioneer fee (comissão do leiloeiro): amount paid to the auctioneer, usually at least 5% of the amount bid, paid by the buyer.

Buyer at auction (arrematante): the person who makes the winning bid and buys the property.

Consolidation of ownership: act by which ownership passes to the creditor after the debt is not paid on time.

Default (mora): delay in paying the debt.

Deposit (caução): amount paid as a guarantee to take part in the auction, when the notice requires it.

Fiduciary creditor: bank or institution that financed the property and holds ownership as security.

Fiduciary debtor: the person who bought the financed property and transferred ownership to the creditor as security.

Fiduciary sale: contract in which the debtor transfers ownership of the property to the creditor as security for the debt, and keeps using it while paying.

First praça: first stage of a judicial auction, held at the appraised value.

ITBI: municipal tax on the transfer of real estate, paid when buying.

Minimum bid (lance mínimo): lowest amount a bid must reach to be accepted.

Notice of auction (edital): document announcing the auction, with the property, the minimum bid, dates and conditions.

Occupancy fee (taxa de ocupação): amount owed by someone who keeps occupying the property after the purchase; under the law, 1% per month.

Official auctioneer (leiloeiro oficial): professional registered with the state commercial registry, authorized to conduct auctions.

Property registration (matrícula do imóvel): official record of the property at the real estate registry, with the history of owners and liens.

Purging of default (purgação da mora): payment of the overdue debt, with charges, which prevents consolidation of ownership.

Redemption of enforcement (remição da execução): full payment of the debt with accessories, which ends the enforcement while the auction record is not signed.

Second auction (segundo leilão): second round of the out-of-court auction, held 15 days after the first, when there is no winning bid.

Second praça: second stage of a judicial auction, when there is no bid in the first, with a minimum bid set by the judge and the notice.

Taking possession (imissão na posse): act by which the buyer gains the right to use and occupy the auctioned property.

Vile price (preço vil): bid so far below the property value that it can be annulled; the STJ uses 50% of the appraisal as a reference, which is not absolute.
